

Neonatal Resuscitation Program

NRP DESCRIPTION

The Neonatal Resuscitation Program is a modular self-instructional course developed by the combined efforts of the American Heart Association and the American Academy of Pediatrics.

The course is designed for professionals who attend hospital setting deliveries and assist with neonatal resuscitation.

The purpose of this program is to assure that there is a trained individual capable of performing a complete and competent resuscitation at every delivery.

*Pre-requisite:

All participants are responsible for the information in the text Neonatal Resuscitation Textbook 5th Edition prior to coming to class.

The text may be purchased on-line, at www.barnesandnoble.com and www.amazon.com.
